

LYNETTE LEWIS

Lynette Lewis has been inspiring men and women on issues of vision and purpose for over 20 years. She travels extensively, addressing audiences ranging from 30 to 15,000 on topics including, “The Power of Purpose--Knowing and Loving What You Are Really Meant to Do”, “Building Your Personal Brand and Eminence,” and more. She is one of John Maxwell’s Maximum Impact Speakers.

A frequent panelist and often-quoted expert on career development, marketing, and branding, Lynette’s eclectic 23-year career has taken her from PR and fundraising at a major university to the senior marketing leader for the National Women's Initiative at Deloitte & Touche in New York City. She spent eight years at Deloitte working with some of the Firm’s largest client teams including GE, Pfizer, Johnson & Johnson, and many more.

Her first corporate book, Climbing the Ladder in Stilettos, was released in October, 2006, receiving recognition from numerous sources including The Wall Street Journal, The New York Post, The Dallas Morning News, and many more. Lynette has appeared frequently on radio and television programs including The Today Show and Martha Stewart Living Radio.

She has worked with global client teams in developing brand strategies as well as individuals wanting to more effectively brand and market themselves. She has conducted hundreds of training workshops and conferences for corporate executives, board members and volunteers, along with the design and launch of national PR and marketing campaigns raising millions of dollars and garnering national recognition.

Lynette’s commitment to the community is evident through service on numerous boards as president and in other roles that have earned her local and national awards and recognition. A graduate of Oral Roberts University, she now serves on its Board of Trustees. She is also the founder of StopChildTraffickingNow.org and is the visionary behind its inaugural walk/run planned for September 27, 2009.

Lynette maintains an active speaking schedule around the country and internationally. She is host of the popular PureLife women’s conference held annually in Manhattan, drawing hundreds of women from the U.S. and abroad.

Lynette lives with her husband and four stepsons in New York City and Cary, North Carolina.
